Research Update:

National Commercial Bank Jamaica Upgraded To 'B+' From 'B' After A Similar Action On The Sovereign, Outlook Stable

September 30, 2019

Overview

- On Sept. 27, 2019, S&P Global Ratings raised its long-term foreign and local currency sovereign credit ratings on Jamaica to 'B+' from 'B', reflecting the country's substantial progress in achieving macroeconomic stability and strengthening its external position, which improves its ability to withstand external shocks.
- The sovereign rating action doesn't affect our Banking Industry Country Risk Assessment (BICRA) on Jamaica, which remains at group '8', with an anchor for banks operating in Jamaica at 'bb-'.
- Following the sovereign rating action, we're raising our long-term ratings on domestic lender, NCBJ, to 'B+' from 'B'. The sovereign ratings still limit those on the bank, because we believe its operations would suffer during a hypothetical sovereign default scenario.
- The stable outlook on NCBJ reflects that on Jamaica.

Rating Action

On Sept. 30, 2019, S&P Global Ratings raised its long-term issuer credit ratings on National Commercial Bank Jamaica Ltd. (NCBJ) to 'B+' from 'B' after a similar action on the sovereign. In addition, we affirmed the 'B' short-term issuer credit ratings on the bank. The outlook on NCBJ is now stable.

Rationale

The upgrade of NCBJ reflects a similar action on Jamaica. Nevertheless, the ratings on NCBJ continue to be below its stand-alone credit profile (SACP) of 'bb-' because these are limited by the sovereign ratings. This is because we don't believe that the bank could withstand a sovereign default scenario, given its large risk exposure to Jamaica in the form of loans and securities.

SACP of NCBJ is our assessment of its credit profile on its own, before sovereign limitations. It reflects the economic and operating environment of the country where the bank bases its operations. It also reflects NCBJ's leading position in Jamaica's banking sector, its diversified income sources by business line, and an effective management direction that helps the bank's competitive position. We consider NCBJ's capitalization metrics to be in line with its business plan, with a forecasted risk adjusted capital ratio (RAC) of about 6.4% for the next two years. However, NCBJ's loan portfolio concentration by economic group and client still somewhat limit its SACP. The bank's funding structure is in line with that of the Jamaican banking system and its liquidity is adequate, in our view.

Rating action on the Sovereign does not impact Jamaica BICRA

The upgrade of the sovereign reflects the continued improvement in Jamaica's external liquidity. A stronger overall external position, along with continued adherence to the government's fiscal strategy, bolsters the country's resilience against external shocks. Our ratings on Jamaica continue to be limited by the country's high debt and interest burden, which restrict its fiscal flexibility. Despite a recent pick-up, GDP growth remains low, constrained by structural impediments. Nevertheless, the government's commitment to fiscal prudence fosters macroeconomic stability--including low inflation--and supports the country's creditworthiness. The country's external position has improved in recent years with declining debt and growing international reserves. We believe that Jamaica's policymaking stability and predictability are bolstered by the continuity and institutionalization of fiscal consolidation policies. In addition, ongoing changes in the governance and mandate of the central bank could gradually improve Jamaica's currently limited monetary flexibility.

Improvement in the sovereign's external conditions doesn't affect our BICRA evaluation on Jamaica, given that the assessment already incorporates a moderate vulnerability of the system to external risks. The banking system is not widely dependent on external funding, and it has a limited exposure to foreign currency denominated loans and deposits.

Outlook

The stable outlook on NCBJ mirrors that on Jamaica, which reflects our view that the country's fiscal policy will remain broadly consistent following the expiration of its IMF Standby Agreement (SBA) in November 2019. We expect the government to continue delivering robust primary fiscal surpluses, leading to a gradual reduction in debt and interest burden, and helping to boost external reserves. We also expect the country to maintain its growth momentum, with modest GDP growth, and that the government will continue advancing toward a more effective monetary policy framework, including a more flexible exchange rate. The stable outlook on the bank also reflects our expectation that it will keep the current fundamentals that support its 'bb-' SACP in the next 12 months.

Downside scenario

We could downgrade NCBJ if we downgrade Jamaica, although this isn't in our base-case scenario in the next year given the current stable outlook. We could also downgrade the bank if its SACP drops to below 'b+', which we don't consider likely in the next 12 months.

Upside scenario

We would raise our ratings on NCBJ if we upgrade Jamaica and the bank's credit profile fundamentals remain the same. However, this is not our base-case scenario for the next year given the current outlook on Jamaica.
